

Natural family photos

Capturing a nice family photo can be a real challenge. Often the results are forced and unnatural, particularly when using photographic studios. That's why Neil Creek takes a different approach.

He offers a photographic service that captures real moments, in real locations. Using the beautiful surrounds of local parks, the beach or even your own backyard, he can take spontaneous, candid images – ones which reflect your true personality.

As well as photographing your family portraits, Neil can also capture those special moments at parties or events.
